INTRODUCTION

North Tyneside and the River Tyne are home to a number of valuable industrial sites for river related activities with extensive river-front access and a deep water port. The area currently sustains a broad range of manufacturing, research and development, advanced manufacturing and general industrial uses supporting the marine, offshore renewable and oil and gas sectors.

Benefits of North Tyneside Include:

- World renowned skills base due to its strong history of offshore and marine engineering
- Regional Grant Funding available
- Two Enterprise Zone sites
- Lower salary levels than other parts of the UK
- Excellent staff retention rates

All together this adds up to a very attractive place to expand or locate a business.
